JAMES EDWARD MILLS; FOREWORD BY SHELTON JOHNSON; NEW AFTERWORD BY THE AUTHOR

10th Anniversary Edition

224 pages | 5½ x 8½ | $21.95 | paperback | 8-page photo insert
Outdoors/Climbing/Black Studies | Rights: World

Named one of the ten “Outdoor Books that Shaped the Last Decade” by Outside magazine in 2020

- Features a new “where are they now” section, updating readers on lives of expedition’s original climbers
- Fully updated and detailed resources based on the “Anti-Racism in the Outdoors” (ARITO) guide
- Readers’ Guide explores additional context and questions for further consideration

Outdoor journalist James Edward Mills’s book, The Adventure Gap, is a groundbreaking volume that is equal parts adventure story, history, and inspiration as it chronicles the first American all-Black summit attempt on Denali in 2013. Mills uses this momentous expedition as a jumping-off point to explore diversity in the outdoors, from Mathew Henson who stood at the North Pole in 1909 to contemporary adventurers such as polar explorer Barbara Hillary and rock climber Kai Lightner.

This tenth anniversary edition once again shares the compelling events that unfolded during Expedition Denali’s summit bid. But it also provides fresh context: A new thought-provoking afterword by Mills examines what has evolved in and around the outdoor community since that effort. He highlights progress and inspiring stories, such as Full Circle Everest, an expedition led by Phillip Henderson that put an all-Black team on top of the world’s highest peak. And he points to places where we can and should all strive for higher achievement.

The Adventure Gap has become an essential text in outdoor education and inspiration—a story of our times, now more relevant than ever.

Vultures and Crows

This game, also known as Kaooa, originated in India. The set up looks a lot like Pentalpha (game 5), but the rules are different and it’s played with two people.

SET UP

Draw a star in the sand or dirt. Find a game piece that can be used as the vulture and another 7 game pieces that can be crows. This is a hunting game, where one player is on offense and the other is on defense! The crows win by surrounding the vulture, and the vulture wins by capturing at least 4 crows.

PLAY

Player 1 goes first and places a crow on any intersection of the star. Player 2 places the vulture on any vacant intersection. Player 1 places a second crow, and player 2 moves the vulture to any adjacent vacant intersection. As player 2 places crows, player 2 can start capturing crows by jumping over them. Captures, or jumps, can only happen in a straight line.

Once all the crows are placed, player 1 can start moving the crows, who are unable to jump, to adjacent vacant intersections. The game proceeds until the vulture has captured 4 crows, or the crows have surrounded the vulture in such a way that it cannot jump or move in any direction.

Note: To avoid boring repetitive moves, you may wish to impose a rule that players cannot repeat the same move two times in a row.

Mancala

This ancient game is at least two thousand years old, and today variations are played all over the world! Because evidence of this game has been found in a lot of different places, it’s hard to know where it originated. Some people even wonder if versions of this game were invented in different places around the same time. Spooky cool!

SET UP

This game is best played in damp sand. Dig 12 holes: 2 rows of 6 small holes with big holes at each end; the big holes are called Mancalas. Alternatively, provided it’s not too windy, you can place large leaves down in the same configuration—2 rows of 6 leaves and 2 big leaves as either end. Each player “owns” the Mancala to their right and controls the 6 holes in front of them. Collect 32 small pebbles. Place 4 in each small hole and none in the large holes.

PLAY

The goal of mancala is to capture all of your opponent’s stones. To decide who goes first, one player hides 1 or 2 pebbles in their hand. The other player guesses which hand holds the pebbles: if they guess correctly, they go first, and if they guess wrong, the player hiding the pebbles goes first.

On their turn, player 1 scoops all the pebbles out of one of their little holes, on their side of the board, and places them, one by one counterclockwise in each hole, including their Mancala but skipping their opponent’s Mancala. If the last pebble placed is in their Mancala, player 1 can immediately take another turn, choosing another hole on their side from which to scoop pebbles.

If the last pebble is placed in their opponent’s Mancala, the player capturing the last pebble takes all the pebbles in that Mancala. If both players haven’t captured any stones, the game is a draw. If you want a better challenge, try using only objects in a similar category, such as only sticks or only pinecones. You’ll begin to notice the tiny differences between them, and you’ll need to learn how to describe these tiny differences to your friend—“the shortish one with the light curl on the end is missing!”
RIVER SONGS
Moments of Wild Wonder in Fly Fishing
STEVE DUDA

A thought-provoking collection of stories from the life of a rock-and-roll fly fisher

- Wide ranging stories explore conservation, art, mortality, friendship, music, old trucks, and of course, fishing
- Illustrated with bold block prints
- Strong connections to the Pacific Northwest

River Songs is rich with bracing, authentic, generous stories—writing that revels in language and spirit. Avoiding most of fly fishing’s clichés—the romantic elegies, the Moby-Dick-like conquests, the play-by-play detailing a “victory” over a fish—Steve Duda instead offers pieces that breathe lived experience, reveal vulnerabilities, and convey a broad perspective of what it means to have “a long run with a tight crew.” Duda is interested in what has been learned out there on the river: what is it about this “ridiculous activity” that connects us to this planet, makes us human, gives us hope?

River Songs focuses on the in-between moments and the unexpected revelations—awe, fear, frustration, doubt, joy—that are as much a part of fishing as tying knots and chucking flies. Readers ride along with Duda in battered pickup trucks, fish “between jobs,” look longingly at unfished famous rivers while touring with a country-punk band, and wonder how a fishing trip led to getting a tooth pulled while being surrounded by trash-talking friends. They will find beauty, discovery, heartbreak, good dogs, and the wonder of nature within the expanse of Northwest landscapes and beyond.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

STEVE DUDA is a writer, editor, and producer whose work in film, magazines, books, and live appearances has shaped the voice of fly fishing for over three decades. He is the former editor of The Flyfish Journal and a founding editor at Boise Weekly. Steve’s cultural writing has been featured in Rolling Stone, Huffington Post, Seattle Weekly, MTV, San Francisco Bay Guardian, The Fretboard Journal, and many others. Currently, Steve is Head of Fish Tales at Patagonia, guiding the brand’s fly fish activism and storytelling through film, video, web, social media, and more. DANIEL D. CHAZIN

Indispensable handbook of mileages between features and facilities on the A.T.

- Essential for basic planning of any A.T. hike
- Culled from all 11 A.T. guidebooks
- Reflects all major changes from the previous 12 months

Sometimes termed “the bible of A.T. hiking” because of its use in essential hike planning, each year’s Data Book consolidates the basic information from the 11 official ATC guidebooks into a lightweight table of distances between major A.T. shelters, road-crossings, and features. Divided to align with the guidebook volumes, the Data Book is updated each December to address trail relocations, new or removed shelters, and other changes. In addition to including codes for lodging, food, water, and other essentials, the Data Book is keyed to both the individual guidebook sections and the separate maps.

DANIEL D. CHAZIN, an attorney and longtime volunteer/editor with the New York–New Jersey Trail Conference, has been the editor of the annual Appalachian Trail Data Book since 1983. He also is the editor of the Appalachian Trail Guide to New York–New Jersey and chair of the publications committee of the NY-NJ Trail Conference.

APPALACHIAN TRAIL THRU-HIKERS’ COMPANION 2025

APPALACHIAN LONG DISTANCE HIKERS ASSOCIATION

A thoroughly researched guide by long-distance hikers for long-distance hikers

- Elevation profiles show the day ahead
- Landmark-by-landmark tables provide at-a-glance information
- Town maps indicate food and lodging

The Appalachian Trail Conservancy and the Appalachian Long Distance Hikers Association collaborate each year on a guide designed for potential thru-hikers who want the basic information for a five- to six-month trek in the woods, at a reasonable price, but who also want the adventure of discovering the extras for themselves. A favorite for 28 years of section-hikers and dreamers alike, it is still the only such guide written by volunteers, and all the proceeds are returned to the A.T. by these two nonprofits. Fact-checking research is done by more than two dozen thru-hiker volunteers in 14 states, backed by the first-hand information of the trail’s volunteer and staff maintainers and managers. Includes gear manufacturers’ toll-free numbers, post office hours, and much more.

APPALACHIAN LONG DISTANCE HIKERS ASSOCIATION is an organization of past, present, and future hikers of the Appalachian Trail. It was formed in 1981 by previous thru-hikers but soon became a “users group” for backpackers and hikers of all the US scenic trails and major hiking paths abroad. ALDHA meets annually for a three-day festival and also engages in volunteer projects, such as shelter work trips and hostel repairs. Robert Sylvester leads a team of 25 volunteer field editors who contribute annual updates for the Companion.

The world’s most comprehensive and respected source for each year’s major climbs

• Hundreds of first-person reports and photos
• Authoritative route-line diagrams and maps
• In-depth stories carefully edited by a team of experts

The American Alpine Journal (AAJ) is renowned as the journal of record for new long climbs of all types. Lavishly illustrated with color photos and maps, the AAJ is where the world’s leading climbers tell the stories of their biggest routes—the climbs that will be tomorrow’s legends. All reports are carefully edited by a team of experts, ensuring accuracy and objective reporting. Each year we reveal many newly discovered—or long forgotten—climbing destinations and untrodden summits, from the United States to the Greater Ranges.

SNOWSHOE ROUTES: COLORADO’S FRONT RANGE, 2ND ED.
Following is an index of titles sorted by region. We’ve indexed guidebooks here to make it easy to find the ones that are near you. Also included are some narrative adventures, because it’s always fun to read stories that took place near where you live or in a faraway place you’re interested in. A little more than half our catalog can be organized regionally. But don’t forget about all those sports instructionals, general lifestyle topics, and wild, sweet, and romantic tales that aren’t in this index. You need to browse through the pages here to find those treasures or, if you know the title, you can find them in the Title Index.
